

Are volume discounts and special pricing options like Reserved Instances and Savings Plans applied at the individual linked account level or the overall master account level?

Four Points follows AWS' billing and discounting practices. Some volume discounting is calculated at the management account level and others at the member/linked account level. You, as the account user or your institution, control whether cost savings methods are applied only at the member account level or shared across all accounts under a Master account.